8 EGERTON GARDEN MEWS - GROUP EXHIBITION

7 — 9 December 2012
12 — 6pm

8 Egerton Garden Mews, SW3 2EH

Square Art Projects hosts its first pop-up exhibition after relocating to London from Barcelona, showcasing work from six international artists working in photography, painting and sculpture.

The exhibition will highlight the connections between the artists and their practices. Although these artists are from different countries and backgrounds, they are linked through their training in London: three of them studied at the Slade, and three of them studied at Chelsea.

The photographs of Katherine Di Turi are centered upon the appropriation of pre-existing images, giving them new meanings and readings.

Cipriano Martínez is an abstract painter whose inspiration comes from the urban landscape and its constant change.

Lucia Pizzani's work concerns gender and its representation in art, be it through photography, sculpture or performance.

Piers Veness is interested in line and colour, creating bold architectural-organic forms in his paintings.

The starting point for Augusto Villalba's work is often photographs, either his own or from the media, which he translates into abstract paintings.

Simon Zabell's work is about creating narratives through painting, recreating scenes or atmospheres from literature and music.
